QUINN'S HOUSE AT PALOLO BURNED

TOM QUINN THINKS A NUMBER OF KOREANS BURNED HIS PLACE TO GAIN REVENGE.

Tom Quinn's house in Palolo Valley was burned last night. The house was built at a cost of about $1500. It was partly furnished.

Mr. Quinn thinks that the house was set on fire by some Koreans with whom he had some trouble lately. He was supplying the Koreans who were tenants of the house with food and on his going out there the other evening he found a large number of Koreans enjoying the food furnished by him. He took the matter into his own hands and administered a severe beating to a number of the offenders. The house was burned and Mr. Quinn thinks that it was the Koreans' methods of getting even with him.

PLANE FOR BUILDING.

Between Maskey's and the new Chronicle building, will erect a first-class structure and has already begun preparations.

Sherman & Clay are going to erect a tall building on the southwest corner of Kearny and Sutter.

Boardman Brothers & Co. announce that Timothy Hopkins has decided to rebuild as soon as possible on half a dozen pieces of property which he owns in the wholesaled district.

Baldwin & Howell state that the Macdonough estate will rebuild the California Hotel, on Bush street, near Kearny; the California building, on the northeast corner of Sutter and Grant avenue; the Danforth warehouse, on Broadway and Front; the Huntington-Hopkins building, on Market and Front; the Kragen furniture store, on Market, near Sixth; the Whist Club building, on Mason street, between Turk and Eddy; the southeast corner of Fourth and Welch (between Harrison and Bryant), and on Spear, near Market. The Macdonough buildings will all be fire-proof structures of the very best kind.

Charles Rosenbaum proposes to erect fine buildings on the northwest and southeast corners of Eddy and Taylor streets and the northeast corner of California and Front. A temporary structure is to be put on the Rosenbaum property, 275 feet square, on the southwest corner of Market and Eleventh streets.

Frank H. Powers states that a project for the rebuilding of the entire block on the north side of Geary street, between Stockton and Grant avenue, is under way. The idea is to carry the buildings to Union Square avenue and facilitate the construction of an arcade on that avenue, as proposed before the fire.

John G. Baker, Calvin E. Knickerbocker and H. R. Bostwick will proceed with the erection of a building for the Westinghouse Electric Company on the east corner of Second and Natoma streets, as arranged before the fire. It will be a ten-story structure, the three lower stories to be occupied by the corporation in question, and the remaining floors to be let as offices.

On 275 feet on Second street Knickerbocker, Barker and Bostwick will put up a temporary corrugated iron and frame building for the Westinghouse Electric Company, and the same thing for the Jesse Moore-Hunt Company on the corner of Second and Howard streets.

SLAYERS OF TILDEN.

all seemed nervous and asked anxiously whether they would be given a chance of an investigation. Simmons told the defensive side of the story in a graphic manner. He said: "It was very dark, and I could not see any Red Cross flag or badge. I heard the guards further up the street calling on the occupants of the machine to halt, but no attention was paid to the commands. Just before the car got to 1 I fired in the air. Still the machine kept on and I fired in advance of it. The soldiers in the car, at this, emptied his revolver at us, and then I shot at the machine. It stopped after running a few yards further and we rushed up to it. Tilden was just about breathing his last, and the soldier, whose name I do not know, fell into our arms. He had been hit in the belt."

Boynton and Vance told substantially the same story. Boynton says he fired but once and then his gun choked. He asserts he did not shoot at the car.

Vance says he shot three times, but not at the machine.

Colonel Kelly of the First California Infantry denies the assertion of the men charged with the killing of H. C. Tilden on Friday night. They claim that they were acting on Kelly's authority. He says that he merely endorsed the orders already given by Mayor Schmitz and Chief Dinan, authorizing the organization of a citizens' patrol, and issued passes to prevent their being hindered by the militia sentries. These passes he issued only to four men whom he knew to be representatives of the Mission district, where the patrol was organized.

GEAR FOOLED
TAX COLLECTORS

Judge Gear and some hundreds of Japanese passengers departed this morning on the S. S. Olympia for Seattle, via unknown island ports. It was announced that the boat would go to Kaula, but as she did not take the course for that island after leaving the port, but took the course that leads to Hilo, it was surmised that she had gone to that port. No mail was sent by her.

Judge Gear sprang a new one on the tax collectors. When the various Japanese started aboard the vessel, they were stopped by the collectors who wanted their personal taxes. Not a Jap had a penny in his pocket nor anything with him except the clothes on his back. Judge Gear informed the collectors that the money could not be collected. It would be like getting blood out of a turnip, for the reason that the Japs had nothing to seize. The collectors appealed to the main office and were informed that if the Japs had nothing to seize on them, nothing could be seized. The result was that the Japs went aboard satisfied and Judge Gear beamed with delight. So when the extra large quantity of personal baggage that was put aboard the vessel belonged, was not explained, but everybody had a pretty good idea on this score.

The Olympia will not return to this place for some months as she has to go to Cape Nome immediately on her arrival at Seattle.

She took several hundred Japanese from this port.
